Russian Major
Bosnian/Croatian/Montenegrin/Serbian (BCMS), Polish, and Slovak Studies Minors

www.slavic.pitt.edu
Revised: 09/2023

The Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures offers a major in Russian and minors in Bosnian/Croatian/Montenegrin/Serbian (BCMS), Polish, and Slovak Studies. During the fall and spring terms, the department offers courses in Russian, BCMS, Polish, Slovak, and Ukrainian.

These languages, as well as Bulgarian and Czech, are also taught in the Summer Language Institute (SLI) at Pitt. Offered in June, July, and the first part of August, the SLI provides intensive courses that cover an entire year of study at the first- through fourth-year levels of Russian language, and the first-year—and typically the second-and third-year—levels of other Slavic languages. There are also study abroad options available at the SLI in Montenegro, Poland, Slovakia, or the Czech Republic. For prospective majors, the SLI affords the opportunity to rapidly increase language proficiency in order to qualify for advanced courses, study abroad programs, or research opportunities.

Prospective majors in the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures include: students who are primarily interested in language or literature, students who wish to enhance their career opportunities in a unique way, students who have an interest in the politics and culture of Russia and Eastern Europe, and students with a desire to explore their ethnic heritage. For students interested in interdisciplinary area studies, the Center for Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies (REEES) certificate, offered through UCIS, is an attractive complement to a major or minor in the Slavic department.

Many Russian majors go on to careers in medicine, computer science, military, law, engineering, business, and government: others continue their studies in graduate school. Students find our training valuable for work opportunities both globally and in local western Pennsylvania institutions in politics, business, health-related professions, and the media. Students interested in a major should begin language study early to attain working language proficiency.

Required courses for the Russian major
The Russian major requires the completion of 30 credits, over and above preparatory work in the language at the elementary and intermediate levels, distributed as follows.

Capstone
One 1000-level course over and above those fulfilling the above requirements, chosen from the list below. (e.g., for fourth-year to count towards capstone, it must be your third semester taking that course). Students must complete three years of Russian language study or its equivalent to enroll for the course designated for their capstone work. Capstone courses require additional work, typically a research paper written in Russian or consultation with Russian-language sources, that displays their ability to engage with the subject matter in the target language.

* Enrollment in these courses for the capstone requires permission from both the instructor and the advisor.

Grade requirements: A grade of B- or better is required in each course that counts toward the major. A grade of C or better in language courses is required for non-majors to advance to the next level. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in departmental courses is required for graduation.

Satisfactory/No Credit option: No course that counts toward the major can be taken on an S/NC basis.

Writing (W) requirement: RUSS 0325, RUSS 0670, RUSS 0770, RUSS 0800, RUSS 0810, RUSS 0870, and RUSS 0871 satisfy the W-course requirement for the major.
Honors major requirements: Honors in Russian is granted if, in addition to fulfilling all requirements for the major, the student:
• maintained a GPA of 3.75 or above in RUSS courses;
• maintained an overall GPA of 3.25 or above;
• completed an additional capstone-eligible course over and above the major requirements; the work for this course should represent a significant research project and will be evaluated by an appointed faculty member and at least one additional member of the department.

Study abroad: Students are encouraged to participate in an approved study-abroad program for a semester or the summer term. The department will adjust the course requirements in individual cases to accommodate this participation without delaying the student's graduation. Majors often apply for SLI and Nationality Rooms Program Scholarships for summer study abroad. The following represents a partial list of study abroad opportunities available to our students.

• The Summer Language Institute (SLI) offers intensive language courses in ten languages with optional abroad components. You may contact SLI at sliadmin@pitt.edu and at 412-624-5711.

• The University of Pittsburgh is affiliated with a number of organizations offering summer, semester, or year-long study abroad. The Global Experiences Office, can be reached at 412-648-7418.

• The Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies Center (REEES) regularly organizes summer study abroad programs in languages and social sciences in locations from the Czech Republic to Slovakia. REEES makes scholarships available for many of these programs.

• The Nationality Rooms Program offers a wide variety of competitive scholarships for summer study abroad in many parts of the world, including Central and Eastern Europe. Applications are due in January. The NRP, located in 1209 CL, can be reached at 412-624-6150.
