www.Sociology.Pitt.edu/Undergraduate

Revised: 07/2020

Sociology is a systematic, scientific attempt to explain, predict, and understand human behavior. For sociologists, the social group is the unit of analysis. Sociologists study human behavior as it is shaped by group life. Sociological insights are valuable tools, which can apply to virtually every type of group setting, ranging from families, marriages, and small groups to institutions, organizations, and nations. Students of sociology are in a special position to help to improve the quality of human life.

Sociologists study social organization. For some, this is to examine societies – how they are structured, how they work, and how they change. The world is a global laboratory with interesting and challenging phenomena. Other sociologists study how small social groups work and how they change. This study includes social networks that people form as part of their social life. Issues of race, class, and gender demand analyses. Sociologists study how people belong to families, groups, and organizations – how people develop identities and how their social organizations become real. Others focus on broad patterns of social organization – socialization, education, welfare, healthcare, and the legal system, for example. In short, the social world is endlessly fascinating.

Sociology is a useful preparation for students looking forward to careers in social services, education, law, business, social work, criminology, urban planning, child development, and the health-related professions. An undergraduate degree in sociology can provide an excellent steppingstone to graduate school.

Required courses for the Sociology major

The sociology major requires the completion of 27 credits in sociology and four credits in statistics, distributed as follows.

One of the following

SOC 0002 Sociology of Everyday Life SOC 0005 Societies SOC 0010 Introduction to Sociology

Both of the following

SOC 0150 Social Theory SOC 0230 Social Research Methods

One of the following

STAT 0200 Basic Applied Statistics STAT 1000 Applied Statistical Methods

Note: The above courses are prerequisites for the research practicum, and all of the listed courses must be completed prior to taking it.

Research Practicum

SOC 1500 Capstone Research Practicum for Majors

Elective courses

Students are required to complete a minimum of 15 elective credits in SOC, six of which must be at the 1000 level. Internships and directed research do not count toward the six 1000-level elective credits.

Grade requirements

A minimum GPA of 2.0 or higher in departmental courses is required for graduation.

Satisfactory/No Credit option

No more than six credits in SOC can be taken on an S/NC basis. After declaring the major, SOC 0150 and SOC 0230 may not be taken on an S/NC basis.

Writing (W) requirement

Students must complete at least one W-course in the major.

Honors major requirement

Honors in sociology is granted if in addition to fulfilling all requirements for the major, the student:

- maintained a GPA of 3.5 or above in SOC courses;
- maintained an overall GPA of 3.25 or above;
- completed SOC 0150 and SOC 0230 prior to completing a three-credit SOC 1002 honors seminar; and
- completed a three-credit SOC honors thesis, written under the direction of a faculty mentor.

Note: The honors seminar, which is offered every fall term, and the honors thesis, which is offered every spring term, may replace six of the 15 required elective credits. Students pursuing the honors major are required to complete the same number of credits that are required for the standard major. For additional details, students are encouraged to consult with the undergraduate advisor.

Thematic cluster certificate

For sociology majors wishing to pursue specific themes within the discipline, the Department of Sociology currently offers five thematic clusters: global and area studies; social movements / inequality; race, gender, and sexuality; the helping professions; and health, environment, and technology.

Upon graduation, students who have completed three approved courses in one of these clusters will be awarded a certificate of achievement by the Department of Sociology.

Internships

The Department of Sociology at the University of Pittsburgh is strongly committed to the career development of its students and sponsors a wide variety of strategic internships. Numerous local internship opportunities exist, involving childhood counseling and education, hospitals and healthcare, psychological and substance abuse counseling, criminal justice, business, law, and politics. The following list includes just some of the sites where sociology majors have held internships. Office of U.S. Senator Robert Casey The American Civil Liberties Union The Pennsylvania Bureau of Consumer Protection The Allegheny County Coroner's Office The Make-A-Wish Foundation The Homeless Children's Initiative

Advising and internships

Daniel Romesberg WWPH 2411 412-648-7580 SocDept@Pitt.edu

Courses for special programs

The Department of Sociology offers courses that are particularly suitable for the following special programs.

Pre-law: SOC 0471, SOC 0472, SOC 0474

Pre-social work: SOC 0424, SOC 0438, SOC 0460, SOC 0471, SOC 0477, SOC 1413, SOC 1450

Pre-medical: SOC 0312, SOC 0475, SOC 0477, SOC 1370, SOC

1450, SOC 1467, SOC 1488

Gender, Sexuality, and Women's studies: SOC 0436, SOC 0446, SOC 1333, SOC 1365, SOC 1448

Checklist for the Sociology major
One of the following
SOC 0002
SOC 0005
SOC 0010
Both of the following
SOC 0150
SOC 0230
One of the following
STAT 0200
STAT 1000
All of the following
SOC 1500
SOC	(elective)
SOC
SOC
SOC 1
SOC 1	(1000-level elective)
Checklist for the Sociology minor
One of the following
SOC 0002
SOC 0005
SOC 0010
All of the following
SOC 0150
SOC 0230
SOC	(elective)

Note: Students must apply for any official minor they will complete or have completed at the time they apply for graduation.

SOC 1 (1000-level elective)